

CURTIS WINS HIS PLEA IN HEARING OF CIVIL SUITS

Brundage Beaten in Effort to Force Ex-Banker to Trial

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22.—The amended plea of Verne S. Curtis, in connection with the state interest money civil suits, was ordered sustained by Judge Frank W. Burton in the Sangamon County circuit court this noon. Judge Burton's order releases Curtis from answering the charges contained in the civil suits brought against him, Governor Small, Lieutenant Governor Fred Sterling and the estate of Ed Curtis.

Curtis, who was represented by Thomas Masters and Werner W. Schaefer, had argued that he could not be called upon to defend himself in the present case as such a defense might incriminate him in connection with an indictment nolle prosequi some time ago in county court.

Curtis is liable, under law to reimburse the state for any time within a year of the date on which the indictment there was nolle prosequi, Attorney General Brundage was represented by Clarence Board.

Following Judge Burton's order, Attorney General Clarence Board, representing the state, filed a motion to set aside the hearing on Curtis' plea, to a Master in Chancery, regarding the defense of Curtis' liability. Judge Burton set the hearing on Nov. 26, in the circuit court here.

Stokes End Legal Battle; She Wins

New York, Nov. 22.—W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy hotel man and his wife, Mrs. Helen Elsie Stokes, formerly of Denver, today ended their legal warfare of several years standing through an agreement by which Mrs. Stokes was granted a decree of separation.

Supreme Court Justice Wassergogel also dismissed the complaint in Stokes' suit for divorce which a jury recently refused to grant on a return. The separation decree provided that Stokes should have access at all times to his children who are to remain in the custody of their mother.

Statements by counsel made it clear that not only have the divorce and separation proceedings ended but that Mrs. Stokes has relinquished her claim to dower and that suits for slander or libel brought by her against W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., her husband's son by his first marriage, have been dropped. As to the criminal proceedings pending in Chicago, they remain in the hands of the prosecuting attorney.

It was learned that a trust fund of $50,000 had been created. The income is to be used for the maintenance of Mrs. Stokes and her two children. Upon her death the principal goes to her children.

Mrs. Stokes is to have no interest in Mr. Stokes' estate in the event of his death.

Mr. Stokes is not to appeal the divorce or separate issues nor is either party to appeal from the terms of the agreement.

Gigantic Liquor Ring Uncovered By Grand Jury Probes

Washington, Nov. 22.—The eastern section of the country is being combed by federal agents in an effort to stamp out a liquor smuggling ring, described as "one of the most gigantic combinations known."

Working on clues obtained by the Savannah, Ga., grand jury, which yesterday indicted 124 persons for alleged violation of the prohibition laws, the agents, according to William G. Burns, chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, have a winter's work before them.

A spokesman for the department declared the Savannah indictments were "only the beginning."

It was said the grand jury's inquiry also shed light on other conspirators. Another result of the investigation, it was declared, was the gathering of much information about the methods of liquor smuggling.

Radio Audion Tube Described By Maker

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Discovery of the "audion tube" has made the present day wireless telephone possible, as described to Chicago radio show visitors today by Dr. Lee De Forest, credited with having produced the first three element audion tube.

The development of the audion tube, so self-evident that the idea of amplifying for a patent was never considered, he said.

After explaining how he developed the three-element audion, Dr. De Forest declared that anyone having any connection with radio should feel that he "is much more than a manufacturer or a merchant, because he is an instrument in the development of the greatest and most glorious science in the world today."

Resolutions Adopted By National Grange

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 22.—The National Grange at an executive session last night adopted several resolutions. As made public today they follow: "Tearing enactment of a 'truth in labeling' act and asking similar legislation to prevent untruthful labeling and advertising of fertilizer, seeds and insecticides; asking the extension of the postal savings law to small communities; and further legislation for the protection of natural resources."

Resolutions opposing the revival of free distribution of seeds and any weakening of the national prohibition law also were adopted.

Posses, Searching for Robbers, Stage Fight; Four Wounded

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 22.—Four members of a volunteer posse organized to search for supposed bank robbers, were shot and seriously wounded by a posse headed by Sheriff Herman Weber at Cory early today. The wounded men are Clyde Lloyd, Thomas Collins, Joseph Van Deeren and Paul Willis.

Sheriff Weber, receiving a call that an automobile party near Cory was acting suspiciously, left for the scene with deputies. In the meantime a volunteer force was formed at Cory.

As the sheriff's party approached, it was met by the citizens posse. Believing them to be bandits, the citizens posse called on them to halt.

Sheriff Weber, thinking he had been ambushed by bandits, opened fire. The posse returned the fire but none of the sheriff's party was injured.

Starkville is in a section of Mississippi nearly given over to the production of cotton. The price of the fluctuation in cotton counts and also on account of the boll weevil trouble, the farmers have decided to try out the diversified farming scheme. Backed by the Chamber of Commerce of Starkville, the farmers decided to try out fresh milk proposition; that is, having the fresh milk turned into condensed milk. The Borden people are co-operating with the farmers in the experiment. The experiment proves successful many thousands of pounds of fresh milk will be received at the Dixon plant.

INLAND WATERWAY ROTES BOOSTED

AMEMPHIS MEET Development of Transportation Subject of Discussions.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 22.—There is need in this country for the development of four kinds of transportation—trucks, inland waterways, railroad and ocean carrying ships—Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee told a group of four kinds of transportation men gathered here for the Mississippi Valley Association.

"They should all be made to co-operate and coordinate, one with the other, to the advantage of all and to the benefit of the people," he said.

Gasoline-propelled trucks, he said, have come and have come to stay, "because they perform a transportation service more economically, more quickly and more effectively than it can be otherwise performed."

Other transportation must realize this fact and should welcome them as an improvement and economy.

"In like manner inland waterways have their economic use, which should not be overlooked. Within about three years Illinois will have finished the locks and dams of the Des Plaines river connecting the drainage canal with the Illinois river. With a small amount of work on the Illinois river, all the way from Chicago to New Orleans. The barge line now operating between New Orleans and St. Louis should immediately be extended to Chicago. This would save the people of the valley literally hundreds of millions of dollars in transportation of product."

Railroads are not keeping pace with the increased production to be hauled and the result is that the country must have additional transportation. Even with trucks and inland waterways we need more additional railroads. The transportation must be so modified as to permit and cause additional roads to be built. There is no reason for practically halting the building of railroads in this country."

Failure to complete waterway projects is one of the greatest difficulties in the solution of the transportation problem, he declared. S. E. Deshay, chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors said in an address prepared for delivery. An address that looks to the building up of the nation's transportation facilities without taking into consideration the full worth of water transportation, will fall far short of its goal, he said, adding that not only are inland waterways important factors in the general transportation scheme but overseas carriers figure as well.

GLAD FOR RESPIRE

London, Nov. 22.—The agreement by which France and Great Britain again present a common front to Germany is heartily welcomed here and not the least by politicians who are glad to be freed, even if the relief should prove to be only temporary.

Some quarters credit Premier Poincare with having taken a more conciliatory attitude because of a desire not to embarrass Premier Baldwin during the campaign.

Call Notes "Feeble"

Paris, Nov. 22.—The attitude of Paris newspapers toward the notes which the council of ambassadors sent to Germany, may be summed up in the words "feeble" and "none."

"They agree that the notes were only feeble productions but they also point out that the allies preserved a united front."

The funeral of Cyrus M. Hefley, Dixon tinner and contractor, who passed away at the Globe hospital in Freeport Wednesday noon, will be held at his home, 1224 Pearl avenue, at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and at the St. Paul's Lutheran church at 2 o'clock, Rev. Lloyd Walter officiating, and with burial at Oakwood.

The family lived in Montgomery county until 1880, when they moved to Whiteside county, where he worked on his parents' farm until reaching his majority.

He then took up railroad work, and continued for 25 years, retiring to go into business here. He was married May 10, 1888, to Miss Clara J. Moseley of Dixon, and she, one son, Arthur, and two grand children, Robert and Edward, survive him. A brother, George Hefley, of Cleveland, O., and a sister, Mrs. Mollie Senneff, of Chicago, also survive him.

Mr. Hefley was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for 36 years and was also affiliated with Dixon lodge B. P. O. Elks. A host of friends will mourn his passing and condole with the bereaved relatives.

Kaneville is Again Cut Off from World

According to reports received from Kaneville, that town is again shut off from the world, as far as electric lines or other means of transportation are concerned other than truck.

The junking of the Chicago, Aurora & DeKalb line has reached a point beyond the town, and the lights have been cut off for over a week.

It was believed that there might be a possibility of saving the line from isolation, by a deal with Ives Joseph, Aurora junk man, but the money was not forthcoming and the orders to tear up were again given out by the present owner.

AVIATION WILL BE BOOSTED IN FRIENDLY SPOTS

Navy Department Tells of Plans for Creating Air Reserve.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Plans for an aviation reserve system, which will train between 150 and 200 expert flyers annually were announced today by the Navy Department. Embodied in the program is the basis of a new policy, which it is said, constitutes the first concrete step toward building the air service of the fleet to the strength required by modern tactics.

In each naval district, "in which the public is sufficiently interested," there will be organized and maintained a reserve aviation unit, capable of turning out a minimum of ten pilots a year.

Equipment for standard reserve training units will consist of two spare parts and such additional aircraft and material "as the resources of the department can afford."

"Owing to the shortage of funds," the announcement says, "the department is unable to make the unit a part of the community in which it is to be established for cooperation and material assistance."

SENT TO PRISON

The former Arctic explorer and false claimant of discovery of the North Pole, was late yesterday afternoon found guilty of using the mails to defraud in the promotion of the Petroleum Producers Assn. of which he was the sole trustee, by a jury in a federal court at Fort Worth, Texas, and was sentenced to serve fourteen years and nine months in the federal prison at Leavenworth.

Judge Killits passed sentence on Dr. Cook after a scathing denunciation of the methods said to have been practiced by the former Arctic explorer, who quailed at the sting of the court's words.

Dr. Cook, made an international character because of sheer effrontery, was conducting a school of crime and operating a cold-blooded, deliberate confidence game, disguised as the Petroleum Producers association, Judge Killits asserted.

His denunciation was made while thanking the jury.

"You have done what I expected you to do," the court said, "when this nefarious scheme began to unfold in the evidence."

In sentencing Dr. Cook, who stood leaning against the clerk's desk, his eyes to the floor, Judge Killits said: "So you can say nothing. You have come to the point where your peculiar personality falls you. You have come to a milestone in your career which you cannot face."

"The twentieth century should be proud of Dr. Cook."

"History gave us Ananias and Sapphira. They are forgotten, but we still have Dr. Cook."

DR. COOK, "FAKE" DISCOVERER, ALSO FAKE OIL PROMOTER

Sentenced to Prison for Fraudulent Oil Stock Dealings.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 22.—Shorn of all glory that may accrue because of his oil promotions and his adventures to the ice-gripped regions of the north, Dr. Frederick A. Cook paces a cell in the county jail today. His last oil promotion, the Petroleum Producers Association, was his undoing.

Late yesterday Dr. Cook was sentenced to 14 years and 9 months in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $12,000 by Judge J. M. Killits. The defendant was charged with using the mails to defraud. If he appeals he must arrange bond of $75,000. J. W. Bailey, his counsel, said he could not meet the $75,000 bond and that he cannot Dr. Cook must stay in jail until his appeal is heard.

In jail with Dr. Cook are thirteen former associates. Among them is S. E. J. Cox who was given his name in prison and pay a fine of $5,000.

Dr. Cook left the court room with a stinging denunciation from the judge.

His Pole "Discovery"

Dr. Cook first became internationally known in April, 1908, when, upon arriving in Copenhagen from a trip to the north, he announced that he had discovered the North Pole. His story was accepted as true and he was received there with high honors.

Upon returning to this country Dr. Cook's reports of his journey and wide credence was given his narrative for some months. Since then his claims have been disputed, and he ultimately was branded as a faker.

At the same time he was the recipient of many honors. He was made president of the Explorers Club, New York, and a member of the Royal Geographical Society, the American Geographical Society, the American Alpine Club and lesser organizations.

Dr. Cook was graduated with a degree of doctor from the New York University College of Medicine in 1900 and the following year was appointed surgeon to the Peary Antarctic expedition. Two years later he led a party to the coast of Greenland, and the next year he explored the south portion of the same island.

Was Decorated

In 1907 Dr. Cook was appointed surgeon to the Peary Arctic expedition and as a result he received numerous decorations including the order of Leopold, the gold medals of the Belgian Royal Geographical Society, the Royal Society and the University of Brussels, and the silver medal of the Belgian Royal Geographical Society.

Again yielding to the lure of the North, in 1911, he undertook an expedition to reach the North Pole. Mount McKinley, the highest point of the American continent, more than 20,000 feet above the sea level. The expedition failed but in 1906 he claimed another and this time he claimed to have been successful.

It was two years later that he announced his claim to have reached the North Pole.

Dr. Cook has written voluminously for magazines along the lines of ethnology, anthropology, geography and other sciences from his observations in the Arctic and Antarctic. He was the author of several books, including "Through the First Antarctic Night."

LUTHERANS RENEW PLEDGE OF SERVICE AS JUBILEE PASSES

Celebration of Seventy-fifth Anniversary Ended Last Eve.

A capacity audience filled the auditorium of St. Paul's Lutheran church last evening for the climax in the season of special Diamond Jubilee services. Chairs were taken from the lower floor and late-comers stood in the halls.

Nearly the entire evening was one of music, praising the God who has led the congregation from pioneer days to the present and who will continue to lead them and all of His people into a fuller life and larger service in the future.

The keynote of conservation was sounded in the prayers, Scripture readings and announcements. In one place, St. Paul's Diamond Jubilee is observed, but in the larger meaning it has only begun. Peter wished to stay on the mountain-top, as was read last evening, in the glory of Christ's transfiguration, while the Master who went down to serve them and told His disciples to have faith, and "nothing shall be impossible to you."

For Greater Service

The pastor, Rev. Lloyd W. Walter, spoke of the privilege and joy that had experienced in connection with the Jubilee, then mentioned three people, that of missing the inspiration and joy of the Jubilee season, of returning to the old ways of having been on the mountain top, and of not fulfilling the promise to the community. The generous notice given by The Telegraph, the souvenir programs, the invitations, the interest and help of the community in making the Jubilee a success—all those things, have led Dixon and vicinity to expect great things from St. Paul's in the future, and the church, as it goes down from the mountain-top must enter its new responsibilities and use them to the utmost.

The pastor's talk was preceded by the beautiful Harvest Anthem (Maundy) by the choir and a fine solo, "Conquerors and Hear Me," by Prof. Keitzman.

Fine Organ Numbers

The three organ numbers were "Sonata" by Mendelssohn, used as a prelude, "Londonderry Air," by Coleman, and "The Rose Tree," by W. A. Chapman was very busy throughout the evening, accompanying the choir. St. Paul's has every reason for its high regard for Mrs. Chapman who has served as its organist the last six years. She is a Dixon girl, born in this community, and began her work in the church as Miss Eleanor Coppins.

The choir, which has occupied the highest position in the choir in its history, was made up of both St. Paul's choir and those who assisted them. Those singing special parts in the cantata were: Mesdames Reedy, Potter, Johnson, Son and W. A. Chapman. Mesdames Reedy, Johnson, and W. A. Chapman, and Miss Anna Copps, tenors: Messrs. Keitzman, Member, Conrad and Schrock basses — Messrs. Long and Frye.

Dr. Cook first became internationally known in April, 1908, when, upon arriving in Copenhagen from a trip to the north, he announced that he had discovered the North Pole. His story was accepted as true and he was received there with high honors.

Upon returning to this country Dr. Cook's reports of his journey and wide credence was given his narrative for some months. Since then his claims have been disputed, and he ultimately was branded as a faker.

At the same time he was the recipient of many honors. He was made president of the Explorers Club, New York, and a member of the Royal Geographical Society, the American Geographical Society, the American Alpine Club and lesser organizations.

Dr. Cook was graduated with a degree of doctor from the New York University College of Medicine in 1900 and the following year was appointed surgeon to the Peary Antarctic expedition. Two years later he led a party to the coast of Greenland, and the next year he explored the south portion of the same island.

Was Decorated

In 1907 Dr. Cook was appointed surgeon to the Peary Arctic expedition and as a result he received numerous decorations including the order of Leopold, the gold medals of the Belgian Royal Geographical Society, the Royal Society and the University of Brussels, and the silver medal of the Belgian Royal Geographical Society.

Again yielding to the lure of the North, in 1911, he undertook an expedition to reach the North Pole. Mount McKinley, the highest point of the American continent, more than 20,000 feet above the sea level. The expedition failed but in 1906 he claimed another and this time he claimed to have been successful.

It was two years later that he announced his claim to have reached the North Pole.

Dr. Cook has written voluminously for magazines along the lines of ethnology, anthropology, geography and other sciences from his observations in the Arctic and Antarctic. He was the author of several books, including "Through the First Antarctic Night."

DR. COOK, "FAKE" DISCOVERER, ALSO FAKE OIL PROMOTER

Sentenced to Prison for Fraudulent Oil Stock Dealings.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 22.—Shorn of all glory that may accrue because of his oil promotions and his adventures to the ice-gripped regions of the north, Dr. Frederick A. Cook paces a cell in the county jail today. His last oil promotion, the Petroleum Producers Association, was his undoing.

Late yesterday Dr. Cook was sentenced to 14 years and 9 months in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $12,000 by Judge J. M. Killits. The defendant was charged with using the mails to defraud. If he appeals he must arrange bond of $75,000. J. W. Bailey, his counsel, said he could not meet the $75,000 bond and that he cannot Dr. Cook must stay in jail until his appeal is heard.

In jail with Dr. Cook are thirteen former associates. Among them is S. E. J. Cox who was given his name in prison and pay a fine of $5,000.

Dr. Cook left the court room with a stinging denunciation from the judge.

Baldwin's Party is Making Some Progress

London, Nov. 22.—Conservatives contend they are making headway in their consequences toward a victory at the polls and they are making headway in the Times, although it gives general support to the government, is nominally non-partisan.

The Times says there is no doubt that the position of the government is stronger than it was at the dissolution of parliament and maintains that Premier Baldwin's temperate statements are gaining ground.

Lady Astor, whose vote in Plymouth was split at the last election by the independent conservatives, will be free from this handicap, the threatened opposition by a second independent conservative having been withdrawn. She thus will have a straight fight with Captain G. W. Brennan, laborite, whom she defeated at the last election.

Today's Market Report

Grain Markets in Rally, Close Firm

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 22.—Although wheat showed some declines during initial transactions today the market soon recovered. Reports of heavy shipments from Russia and lower Liverpool quotations were bearish factors.

Good buying support here developed, however, and bulls contended that wheat had intrinsic value at current prices. The opening, which ranged from 3/4c off to 1/4c up, Dec. 1.02 1/2 and May 1.08 1/4 was followed by a rally all around to slightly above yesterday's finish.

Owing more or less to strength in the stock market, a subsequent decided advance in wheat values took place with considerable buying ascribed to speculators who recently have been bearish. The close was firm 1/4 to 1/2c higher Dec. 1.03 1/4 and May 1.08 1/4.

Predictions of rain or snow gave firmness to corn. After opening unchanged to 1/4c lower May 72 1/2 and 1/4c, the market showed slight general gains.

Oats started at 1/4c decline to a shade advance, May 44 1/4. Later all months showed a little upturn.

Provisions were easy.

After the corn market sympathized with wheat strength, corn closed firm 1/4 to 1/2c higher, May 72 1/2.

Entry of the United States as a member of the World Court occasioned much discussion.

Mrs. J. W. Morrison of Chicago, one of the five American women composing the "Flying Delegation" which visited prominent women in Europe this summer to learn their general attitude toward war prevention urged the delegates to take an active part in getting signatures for the League of Nations petition calling for "convention of the United States into permanent court of international justice."

Citizenship schools in every Illinois high and normal school and college are to be started in the winter. The summer courses in all summer courses at the University of Illinois were urged in the report on citizenship training submitted by Mrs. May Wood Simons.

Revision of histories to eliminate that which is calculated to stir up national animosities and a state-wide inquiry into the status of private dealing in ammunition and firearms, were two proposals adopted at the suggestion of the committee on education.

Mrs. B. F. Brown, chairman of the women in industry committee offered numerous suggestions which were all accepted. Among them was one calling on the League of Nations to record on record on questions which the league considers vital.

None of the committee reports aroused opposition and all were adopted.

The budget for 1924 as presented provides for $33,500 an increase of $5,000 above last year's figure.

Mrs. Harriet Polk, mayor of Colchester, who has completed six months in office, said her main difficulty was getting the right cooperation from her police and other officials in enforcing dry laws. "I tell them all," she declared, "that I have embarrasments as well as they do in my duty but that my oath takes no account of embarrasments. Deal with all alike, I tell 'em."

Mrs. Polk went into office with no experience, she said, than church work and teaching a Methodist Sunday school class provided. Besides guiding the government of Colchester, she does all her own housework.

WALTON EXPECTS CHARGE.
Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—A charge that criminal action will be instituted against J. C. Walton in connection with his official acts as governor of Oklahoma loomed today.

A grand jury which considered evidence against Walton was removed from office by a senate court of impeachment has drawn indictments, it is understood, and will report today.

Walton has made known his intention immediately to surrender and stand trial. Under the apprehension that the grand jury would act yesterday, he spent several hours at the court house and left only after being informed that the grand jury's report would not be presented until today.

The expected indictments, it is declared in well informed quarters, will charge Walton with diverting public funds to his own use by placing his private chauffeur on the payroll of a state department and preventing assembly of a grand jury.

At My Age---62

My Youth Cream keeps this baby skin
By Edna Wallace Hopper

Thousands upon thousands of women have asked me to tell what good cream I employ. They see me with a girl's complexion at the age of 62. It is even softer, even rosier than 40 years ago.
Yet my life has been lived in the twilight. And I served France for five years in the rigors of the war.
A French creation
French experts perfected this cream for me many years ago. It contains both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to soften, whiten, smooth and feed the skin.
Neither I nor my friends have ever found a cream to compare with this. The expert makers tell me it is the greatest cream produced. So I have arranged to have them make the identical cream for you. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream. All druggists and toilet counters now supply it at 50c per jar.
They also supply my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth, to which I owe my heavy, lustrous hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.
Go try my Youth Cream. Learn how it exceeds all others. Then I think you will want all the beauty helps which have done so much for me. Edna Wallace Hopper. Business address, Waukegan, Wis.
Note: Miss Hopper is now appearing twice daily in the Pantages Theatre of the Pacific Coast and western states.

Women's League Investigates Egg Market

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Formation of a definite platform today will occupy the 400 women delegates attending the 4th annual convention of the Illinois League of Women Voters, committee reports will be acted on and officers selected and a budget adopted.

In the afternoon a mock legislative session is to be held with Mrs. Catherine McCulloch, chairman of the women's democratic club of Chicago, acting as president of the senate.

Several women elected to office will tell their experiences. They include Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, the only woman representative in Illinois; Mrs. James Paige of Minneapolis, woman representative in the Minnesota legislature; Mrs. Harriet Polk, mayor of Cochester; Mrs. Patricia S. Merwin, Mason county superintendent of schools and Mrs. Bertha George, school director at Geneva.

Mrs. Thomas L. Donovan, chairman of the democratic state central committee will tell how to manage a political campaign.

Mrs. A. L. Bergland, Galva, member of the democratic state central committee and Mrs. Fletcher Dobyne, Chicago, president of the women's Roosevelt Republican Club, will make suggestions on what party women can do for women candidates.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Investigation of the egg market, particularly in Chicago, was undertaken by the League of Women Voters today by the appointment of Mrs. E. L. Middleton, Evanston, and Mrs. Henry W. Cheney, Chicago, as two members of a committee of three to spend at least a month determining whether the present high cost of eggs is justifiable.

The committee on living costs reported that it had adopted a program of work for the year, to include encouragement of co-operative associations, municipal markets, elimination of profiteering, regulating cold storage and preventing speculation and other unfair practices which result in unjustifiable increases in the prices of necessities.

Reporting for the committee on efficiency in government, Mrs. Florence Bannett Peterson, Chicago, declared the "gateway amendment" passed by the 53rd general assembly providing for submission of two constitutional amendments at one time, "nothing substantial, but only a theoretical gain." The "gateway amendment" will be submitted to the electorate for approval.

Adoption of the "pure Australian ballot," non-partisan election of judges and kindergartens in every school district where parents want them, were three other proposals submitted by the committee.

Amendment of the Illinois child labor law to provide that no child over 14 may be employed until he has finished the eighth grade, instead of the sixth as now provided was offered as a plank for the league platform by the committee on child welfare.

Mrs. Ella S. Stewart, of Chicago, chairman of the every woman at the polls committee, announced the league's goal for the 1924 election as "seventy-five percent of the vote out."

In the last presidential election only 46.5 percent voted; and the men voted 74.7 percent. Women down state, she declared, are the better voters.

Abandonment of the general property tax for state purposes, and adoption of a gasoline and income tax, was advocated by L. D. White of the University of Chicago in an address. He also urged that the state adopt the income tax and that the powers of the state taxation commission be increased.

Mrs. White suggested that the league establish a permanent bureau of investigation to collect facts that will enable the league to formulate a constructive tax program.

Baird, who is attending Armour Institute, Chicago, is ushering at the Ohio-Illinois football game played in Chicago, recently, and ushered a man to his seat who looked most familiar. The gentleman looked at Mr. Baird with equal interest and finally said, "Isnt this Allan?" And Mr. Baird assented and as soon as the man spoke knew it was Prof. Hagen, a former principal in the Dixon school. Mr. Hagen has grown much heavier, and is teaching at the Crane school, Chicago, it is whispered, he is slated for honors in the near future.

WARM COATS FOR GIRLS

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Nov. 22.—A large pan that has no table rack is used, pin a neatly folded napkin around the pan before sending to the table.

The crust is made as follows:
Chicken Pie Crust.
Four cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 cup butter and lard mixed, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg yolk, water to make a soft dough.

Mix and sift 4 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 cup butter and lard mixed, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg yolk, water to make a soft dough.

Roll out on a well-floured board to 1/8 inch thickness. Line pan. Roll out on crust. Cut four wide gashes through the dough. These must be cut wide enough to allow for the rising of the dough. The steam MUST be allowed to escape from a chicken pie while baking.

Dampen the lower crust of the pie and press the upper crust firmly against it. Roll and crimp the edge just as for ordinary pie. If a glazed crust is desired brush over with the white of the egg.

Veal and Ham Pie.
Two pounds lean veal, 1/2 pound ham, 2 hard-boiled eggs, 1 pair sweetbreads, 1 lemon, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon powdered "fine herbs," 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, stock short crust.

Cut veal and ham into pieces two inches square. Simmer in boiling water until tender. Blanch and parboil sweetbreads. Cut in slices.

Prepare a crust as in preceding recipe and line baking dish. Arrange meat and ham, eggs cut in slices and sweetbreads in layers, seasoning with grated lemon rind, salt, pepper, nutmeg and fine herbs as each layer is added. Thicken stock with flour and water stirred to a smooth paste and pour over meat. Pile the meat high in the center of the dish. Make a hole in the center of the top crust and fit over pie. Press edges together and crimp. Bake half an hour in a moderate oven.

Veal and chicken are combined if only one chicken is used. This makes an economical but delicious pie.

Stuffed Fresh Ham.
The butcher should remove the bone from the ham in such a way as to form a sort of pocket to hold the stuffing. The skin is usually removed before the butcher sends the meat from the market.

Stuffing.
One cup cracker crumbs, one cup bread crumbs, one egg, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 12 Italian chestnuts, 1 cup hot milk.

Mix cracker and bread crumbs with seasonings. Shell and blanch chestnuts and add to crumbs. Add egg, unbroken, and mix well with a fork.

Add milk and mix with fork. Put into the ham and sew any openings the butcher may have made in boning. Rub the surface of the ham well with salt and pepper and put in roaster.

Roast in the oven for three hours. Remove from oven and sprinkle with fine bread crumbs. Return to oven to brown crumbs. Serve with squash croquettes and blushing apples.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

AN APPRECIATION—Thanks to the Kiwanis Club of Dixon and to the eleven men among those who sat at the "Fathers and Sons" banquet for making it possible for the children at Nachusa Orphanage to enjoy two most pleasant evenings. You men, the hosts and "fathers" of the children on these two evenings, have made a wonderful impression on their minds and have established for yourselves a big and warm spot in their hearts.

Every minute, from the time they left the home until they returned, was thoroughly enjoyed by every child. They could not tell whether it was the auto ride, the pictures, or the ice cream and candy that was enjoyed most.

I wish it was possible to thank every man personally. One of the little girls gave a suggestion when she asked that we call up the man who was her host. When asked what his name was she replied, "I don't know, but you call him and he will tell you his name."

If any of the children forgot to say "thank you," it was only because they were so full of good things. We hope they did not forget it, but if so, may we say it for them most emphatically, THANK YOU!

INTERMEDIATES WIN
The Intermediate basketball team defeated the North Side H. S. five games on the Y floor by a score of 13-8. From start to finish the game was fast and furious, many fouls being called on both sides by the "Ref" who called "an foul." The intermediates got the jump in the first half and started to run up the score before they had gotten a good start. The North Siders rallied and halted the scoring. In the second section was a toss up as to which team was the better, and when the fight was over each team had gotten five points apiece. This game was the second played by the intermediates; the first and their third will be with Franklin Grove Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

ATTACKS CANCER.

Off and on for years, you've read a lot about experiments with the X-ray against cancer. The results of all this experimenting are now summed up by the Fockefeller Institute for Medical Research, which announces that X-ray treatment apparently does not directly kill cancer cells, but stimulates healthy cells to attack and destroy cancer cells.

WILD ANIMALS.

More wild animals in this country than any of us imagine. About 441,000 head of deer make their homes in the national forests, also 40,500 elk. Antelope herds are gradually vanishing. Buffaloes, only 149.

If it hadn't been for government protection, all these would have been killed off long ago by hunters. Uncle Sam keeps them as pets, same as an individual keeps a dog.

OWNERS.

The Great Northern is the first northwest railroad to offer its stock to its employees on the partial payment plan. The road will have to buy stock in the open market as it is subscribed for, since all the stock is in the hands of the public—45,000 shareholders.

It's a rare day that an item similar to this doesn't bob up in the news. Possibly solution of the so-called capital-labor problem will be for employees to take over ownership of the business that employ them, by gradually buying control.

GUN TOTERS.

Do you own a revolver? It's amazing, how many Americans do. For instance, gun toting or owning is severely restricted in New York City. And yet New York has been issuing legal permits to 30,000 people a year, to possess or carry pistols.

Pistol permits of course, are not issued to known crooks. But legally owned pistols are repeatedly stolen by housebreakers. That's how the underworld gets part of its firearms.
Mail order purchase is the commoner method by which crooks arm themselves. This method requires no police registration. A criminal can not only get a pistol easily and cheaply, he can get as many as he wants and whenever he desires—by mail order.

Authorities in Buffalo the other day revoked all pistol licenses in town and the surrounding county. Fifteen thousand permits to carry firearms are affected by the Buffalo action, which resulted from discovery that a murderer wanted by police was the holder of county pistol permit.

New York City is attacking the pistol men-ce in another way. Applicants for gun permit are being finger-printed, the prints then checked up to make sure the aplicants haven't a criminal record.

As long as crooks are able to get firearms, there'll be shooting. Even the law-abiding citizen is apt to have moments of rage or recklessness when possession of a pistol is dangerous.

But local restrictions cannot be other than any until the national government prohibits interstate commerce, the sale and shipment of revolvers except for officers of the law.
Legislation to that end is before Congress.

HORNS.

A horn six inches long grew on the head of old man, 67. It didn't particularly harm him—probably was convenient for preventing his hat blowing off. But as soon as the ctors saw it, they smacked their lips and wanted to operate. They talked the owner into parting with his unique belonging.

The horn is exhibited now, before the Aus-talian Medical Congress. The scientific theory is that it's a "throwback" to reptilian ancestors with horns. Or that the owner lived end of his time—more plausible theory, we know plenty of people who could grow horns appropriately.

AUTO CHIMNEYS.

He's found unconscious under his auto—
John A. McKinley, New York building contractor. Overcome by the poisonous auto exhaust while repairing his car. This happens outdoors, instead of in the garage with door closed, so he'll live.

With over 13 million autos in America generating this poison gas, protection is badly needed. Most sensible solution so far suggested is to run the exhaust pipes up above the autos, like chimneys, to eject the gas above the level of the air we breathe. Passing auto now ejects it near the pavement and it heads for the lungs.

BUNK.

A prominent lawyer estimates that 200,000 pages of the reports and discussions of the courts will be added this year to the already tremendous mass of American legal "precedent." This undigested and indigestible mass of precedent, on which the law chiefly rests, is the main cause of legal delay and miscarriage of justice.

Some ethical lawyers are working for a restatement and clarification of the laws.
More power to them. A housecleaning of the clutter and cobwebs is desperately needed.

The world needs to raise more things to eat and wear and not so much of the commodity saturated with sulphur.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 1—RIDDLE LAND

Humpty Dumpty himself—no other.

"Riddle Land! Riddle Land!" sang Nancy. "We're going to Riddle Land to see the Riddle Lady and I'm glad!"
The Fairy Queen smiled. "I'm glad too," she said. "Glad you are so happy about it. And I'm sure you won't be disappointed, for it's one of the most curious places in my kingdom—or my nine hundred and ninety-nine kingdoms, I should say."
"What are we to do there?" asked Nick, Nancy's twin brother.
"Nothing!" said the Fairy Queen.
"That is, nothing but enjoy yourselves. All little boys and girls enjoy riddles, and when the Riddle Lady sent me word that she would love to have you, I promised her that you should go at once."

"Oh, thank you," cried both twins together. "How do you get there?"
"By just wishing," said the Queen.
"Your magic green shoes know the way. Are they on tight?"
"Tight as paint," said Nick, stamping round.
"You'll know the place when you come to it," the Fairy Queen went on to say. "The chimneys are all question marks and the houses in Riddle Town spell W-I-L-D. The people all have pockers between their eyes from guessing so hard and Humpty Dumpty is mayor."

At that minute there was a loud knocking at the palace door and Nimble Toes, the Fairy Queen's servant, bowed in a visitor. A most pompous looking person, dressed in red plush, smoke cloth and a white satin vest.

His coat tails were of such a length as to show how important he was.
Humpty Dumpty himself—no other—bowed of neck and fat of cheek and a stomach of no small proportion.
He leaned forward slightly and straightened—a bow, no doubt, yet nobody could say that he had bent by a pinch in the middle.
"Hearing that our visitors are such important little people," he began,
"I came myself to escort them to Riddle Land and to give them the key to Riddle Town. At your service, my dears."

And so saying he handed the twins a most enormous key that looked as though it might unlock a mountain.
"If it suits your highness, I shall take these children with me now. The Riddle Lady was writing a new riddle when I left. Indeed it was almost finished. I left Red-Cap, the town crier, was out with his trumpet, and the people were beginning to gather in the square. The person who guesses the riddle first gets a prize."

"Yes, yes! Run right along, all of you," said the Queen, waving them away. "And see how smart you are and how many riddles you can guess, kiddies. Goodbye!"

Humpty Dumpty bowed again stiffly and saw the children off.

FRACTIONS

BY BERTON BRALEY

The captain walked the quarter-deck.
A brawny deep-sea rover.
He loved to quaff his half and half
When he was half-seas over.
He'd been a quarter-master once,
But swiftly he had risen
Until the captain's quarters were Indubitably his.

At school he was a quarter-back
Ere he became a sailor.
His father wanted him to be
A landsman and a tailor;
The boy remarked, "In that career
I'd find no joy at all.
A tailor is one-ninth a man,
A fraction much too small."

And so he walked the quarter-deck
And said across the foam,
While thinking of his better half
Who waited on at home.
But still he kept a half-an-eye
Upon his half-breed crew,
And noted from which quarter came
The wind that blew and blew.

A half moon glimmered in the sky,
The captain's thoughts were stirred
To dwell upon his new-born son.
Who was, it chanced, his third—
I might go on for half a year
About this captain's actions.
But I can't show his whole career.
For I've run out of fractions.

KNOW Thy-Self

NERVES

A large number of women develop nervousness or nerve instability as a result of one chronic ailment which is permitted to gnaw at their vitality and remain undisturbed for years.

Many people, often in the same family, do not understand or sympathize, especially if they have never suffered in the same manner, and declare that the nervous symptoms in Aunt Jennie or Sister Sue are "imaginary." But it isn't. The one afflicted knows different, through the terrors of many a nerve-racked day and afflictions that sometimes last for years.

"Nerves" are a deadly enemy to the appearance and attractive personality of any woman. They aggravate and increase to a marked extent any actual ill health she may have.

The first thing to realize is that there is a cause. You must try to remove that and make up your mind or "will" to escape from nerves. If you are troubled with dyspepsia begin at once to get your digestive organs into a healthy, sound condition by right eating habits and proper food. If you are doing more than you should properly do, let up.
Don't be a martyr. They are not appreciated at the present day.

Practice muscle relaxation with complete rest at certain intervals during the day and try deep breathing frequently during both rest and work. The nervous woman breathes rapidly, and by so doing expends energy she ought to save.

Lastly, strive for mind control.
Refrain from anger, sharp words or irritating remarks which are evidences of a nervous explosion. Don't think of yourself or try self-pity.
Use your energy for others and be the happy warrior.

Here is another case where the health examination comes into the play. Have you ever had one, a real honest health examination by a real physician? Its purpose is to find out whether there is anything wrong in the machinery of your body. If there is you should know it and try to bring about a complete restoration in your health.

This will definitely tell you what to do so that you may not continue drifting along for years into neurasthia, nerve instability and health bankruptcy.

Suspect Confessed Murder of Old Lady
in Boone, Ia., Home

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 21.—Robert Burris, arrested in Peoria, and brought here for questioning in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Eric Rose of Boone, Ia., on Sept. 25, confessed today to the slaying of Mrs.
Rose, according to H. Yackey, state department of justice agent. The confession, Yackey stated, came after an all-night grilling in the Polk county jail.

The officer said Burris would plead guilty to a charge of murder when taken to Boone for arraignment.

Mrs. Rose, an aged woman, was clubbed to death at her home Sept. 25, her invalid husband being unable to help her. Her assailant then ransacked the home and escaped with $25 and a rifle.

Burris is said to have a criminal record in Missouri.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 21.—Club women at

CORRECT CHOICE OF TUBE FOR SET IS BANE OF FANS

Selection is Based on Purpose, Type and Kind of Battery.

Three general considerations must be borne in mind in the choice of the type of tube to be used with specific outfits. The selection of the proper detector and amplifier tube is determined by the purpose, the type of set, and the kind of battery to be used. Tubes can not be used interchangeably and each has a distinct field of usefulness.

The choice of a tube to use for a particular purpose depends in general upon three main considerations:

(a) Broadcast listening for the enjoyment of entertainment programs.

(b) Experimentation on apparatus and circuits.

(c) Long-distance code reception.

The type of set in which the tube is to be used; that is, the electrical circuits involved, number of tubes used and whether a loud speaker is included in the equipment.

(3) Whether storage batteries, No. 6 dry cells or flashlight dry cells are to be used for filament operation.

Radiotron UV-199

This tube requires a minimum of filament energy. In fact, it uses only .13 of a watt.

The bulb is of small size and a special base and socket suitable for such a small tube are used. On account of the small size of the tube the capacity between electrodes is lower than in either of the other tubes.

This tube is particularly suited for portable sets in which it is necessary or desirable to use flashlight cells for filament operation.

It is recommended for sets in which there are three tubes or more and where dry cells only are available for filament operation.

For self-contained sets it is also very desirable because of all the necessary batteries can be placed in the cabinet with the rest of the equipment.

The small electrical capacity between the electrodes makes it a very satisfactory tube for radio frequency amplification.

This tube does not require critical adjustment of plate voltage and tapped plate batteries are not necessary, whether the tube is used as a detector or amplifier.

For self-contained sets it is also very desirable because of all the necessary batteries can be placed in the cabinet with the rest of the equipment.

and it is not necessary to have taps on the plate batteries.

Although the capacity between the electrodes of the UV-201-A is somewhat greater than that of the UV-199, its greater inherent amplification makes it just as satisfactory in radio frequency amplification.

When used for audio frequency amplification, a negative grid has "C" battery should be used, the following table gives the correct value of "C" battery with different plate voltages:

Plate Voltage.	"C" Battery Voltage.
40	0.5 to 1.0
60	1.0 to 2.0
80	2.0 to 3.0
100	3.0 to 4.5
120	4.5 to 6.0
140	6.0 to 9.0

ALERTNESS TESTS FOR MARINE OPERATORS

The naval communication service is making extensive tests with radio on three cruisers and a battleship now at sea. The tests are designed to determine the alertness of watch maintained by ship and shore stations.

The Navy Department has decided to place naval communications on a competitive basis in a more or less similar way as is done for gunnery and engineering and has issued necessary instructions to commanders.

Small Has Saved People Big Amount

Vienna, Ill., Nov. 20.—The state administration has built 2100 miles of standard 18 foot pavement at an average cost of $27,500 per mile, Governor Len Small told Johnson county citizens here today.

The state administration has saved the people of Illinois more than $34,000,000 on road building alone, Governor Small said. "Figured in miles instead of dollars, the people during my administration have saved 1240 miles of hard roads."

The governor explained the provisions of the proposed $100,000,000 bond issue and urged the people to support the issue in the election, Nov. 1924.

Misguided Joker Reported Suicide of Sister of Star

New York, Nov. 21.—Someone with a perverted sense of humor today started a rumor that Reine Davies, daughter of City Magistrate Douglas and sister of Marion Davies, movie star, had shot and killed herself in her apartment and the report was telephoned to police headquarters.

Miss Davies personally denied the report of her death.

A person who attempted to imitate the voice of Marion Davies telephoned two friends of Reine Davies, C. F. Sittel and Sime Silverman, publishers of theatrical magazines, and advised them to go to Miss Davies' apartment to examine her will. They found Miss Davies in bed where she has been for two weeks with an attack of neuritis.

Road House, Scene of Murder, Raided

Marion, Ill., Nov. 21.—Police and postoffice inspectors of St. Louis today conducted raids at the Half Way House, where William F. Doering, St. Louis gunman was shot fatally Sunday night and at the home of a woman next here where Doering sometimes resided.

Doering and David Wiseman of Johnson City, were convicted of complicity in the $233,550 mail robbery in St. Louis, April 2. All but $11,000 of the loot was recovered in Doering's bungalow in St. Louis county and today's raids were made in an effort to find additional evidence.

NEW ORLEANS

BY MASON DIXON

NEA Service Writer

New Orleans—Just across the river from New Orleans is the suburb of Gretna, where in the district court are tried the cases of Jefferson Parish, which runs down to the coast. It is here that come the defendants, many of whom speak little English.

From Grand Isle comes Justice of the Peace Lange, who files the misdemeanor charge. Before Judge Ed- ington of the district court came this week a Grand Isle case in which Etienne Lacour was charged with "shooting and wounding with intent to kill." Nobody seemed to know the name of the victim, even though an interpreter. Then came Justice Lange to the stand.

It developed that Etienne had shot and wounded the chickens of Placide Dubuise when they raided his garden.

"Don't he shoot them an' woun' them?" asked Justice Lange indignantly when reproved by Judge Ed- ington. "Sho' he de!"

The Cavaliere Guglielmo Silenzi, royal Italian consul-general, at New Orleans, has been promoted to the diplomatic service of his country, and sails for Rome, November 20.

This week he was given a banquet by his friends. The Cavaliere sat as guest of honor, immaculate in evening clothes and monocle.

Up rose Mayor Andrew J. McShane of New Orleans for the speech of the evening. The usual verbal bouquet.

"Before you go, Cavaliere," concluded His Honor, "there's one point if international information I ask you to leave with us."

"With pleasure," smiled and bowed the Cavaliere.

"How th'—do you keep that window-pane in your barboard lamp, sir?" asked His Honor.

NEW YORK

New York—Kitchens have become so rare in New York that some youngsters reared in upper West side apartments do not know what they are like.

Most of the homes in this quarter of town have "kitchenettes" about the size of a small pantry in a normal mid-western house.

So an enterprising landlord advertised his "3 and 4 room apartments with REAL kitchens." The novelty attracted so much attention that all the apartments were rented in short time.

"Business is terrible," complains a taxi driver. "There are too many on the streets—the business is split too many ways for a worthy profit for all."

Yet with so many cabs in New York all seem to do a lively trade.

During the theater rush hours in the Broadway district the streets are a sea of taxicabs. Rarely does an owner-driver venture into the maelstrom of traffic. If he does not have a chauffeur for his car—he takes a cab.

Weather affects New York probably more than any other city in the world.

When it is bright and sunny, there's a springy action to the rapid gait of pedestrian traffic. People go about, hurrying to the humming tune of rush. There is an air of frivolity about the most serious work.

When the atmosphere is soggy, the sky overcast with threats of rain, everyone is as peevish as a wounded wildcat. Each moves about with the proverbial chip on the shoulder and a droop to the corner of the mouth that bodes evil for all who cross his path.

Traffic is probably the dominating reason. When the weather is fair, many walk and ride the bus lines. If it is threatening all crowd to the already jammed subways and the fighting ire is aroused.

And New York hangs in the suspension of fog, a true London weather demon, very often in the fall.

The opera season is on, and the professional "claqueurs" are warming up for a busy season. They are the men who start the applause and keep it going when an audience isn't responsive enough. Who hires them is a mystery; the opera company, the stars, the management all deny their existence.

Yet each night they like the outer rim of the top balcony at the Metropolitan and express their joy unbounded at the end of each aria or scene. Their technique varies. Some cup their hands and produce a muffled applause. Others distend their fingers and give forth a ringing sound. But the majority clap with the palms of their hands and swell the applause into a thunderous roar.

A MATING IN THE WILDS

By OTTAWA STARS

-RAILS-ILLUSTRATED BY

SIXTEEN-APRIL, 1923

OWNED BY A SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hubert Stane, discharged convict, while visiting a northern post of the Hudson Bay Company, meets an old friend, Gerald Ainley, who promises to call at Stane's camp at midnight. Stane becomes acquainted with Miskodee, beautiful Indian girl. At midnight Stane is attacked and carried off by Indians. He awakens to find himself in strange surroundings.

Ainley, traveling with a governor of the company, falls in love with Helen Yardley, the governor's niece. Helen disappears from her uncle's camp and Gerald goes in search of her. Stane rescues Helen from the river when her canoe travels toward a dangerous waterfall.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Teel That is the name. I remember my uncle mentioning it yesterday."

"Then you came down the main stream for a certainty, for the old fort stands on a lake that finds an outlet into this river, though it is rather a long way from here. We will keep straight on. No doubt we shall strike either your uncle's camp or some search party presently."

As it happened the conclusion he reached was based on a misconception. The only waterway to old Fort Winnipeg that he knew was from the main river and up the stream that formed the outlet for the lake. But there was another that was reached by a short portage through the woods from the subsidiary stream from which he turned aside, a waterway which fed the lake, and which cut off at least a hundred and twenty miles. Knowing nothing of this shorter route he naturally concluded that Helen Yardley's canoe had come down the main stream, and took the wrong course in the perfect assurance that it was the right one.

So hugging the left bank they passed the junction of the rivers, and a little further on crossed to the other side to seek shelter from a rising wind, under the high bank. And less than an hour later the canoe, carrying Gerald Ainley and his Indian, swept out of the tributary stream into the broader current, and they drove down-stream, unconscious that every stroke of the paddle was taking them further from the girl whom they sought.

CHAPTER VII
Stranded

It was high noon when Hubert Stane directed the nose of the canoe towards a landing place in the lee of a sand-bar, on the upper side of which was a pile of dry driftwood suitable for firing.

He lit a fire, prepared a wilderness meal of bacon and beans (the latter already half-cooked by Miskodee and coffee, and as they consumed it, he watched the river, a long stretch of which was visible.

The long day drew to its close and the camp they sought had not appeared; nor had any search-party materialized. As they pitched camp for the night, the doubt which all day had been in Stane's mind became a certainty.

"I am afraid we have made a mistake, Miss Yardley. You must have come down the other river."

"I am sorry to give you all this trouble," said the girl contritely. "Please—please!" he answered in quick protest. "Believe me it is a pleasure to serve you, and with me a few days do not matter. I shall have enough of my own company before long."

"You live alone?" asked Helen. "I have an old Indian for companion."

"And what do you do, if you will permit me to be so curious?" "Oh," he laughed. "I hunt, I pursue the elusive muskrat, and I experiment with vegetables. And this winter I am going to start a trapping line."

"But you are rich!" she cried. "You have no need to live in exile."

"Yes," he answered with sudden bitterness. "I am rich. I suppose Ainley told you that. But exile is the only thing for me. You see a sojourn in Dartmoor spoils one for county society."

"Oh," she cried, protestingly. "I cannot believe that you—that you—" "Thank you," he said as the girl broke off in confusion. "I cannot believe it myself. But twelve good men and true believed it: an expert in handwriting was most convincing. And if you had heard the judge—"

"But you did not do it, Mr. Stane. I am sure of that."

"No," he answered, "I did not do the thing for which I suffered. But to prove my innocence is another matter."

"You have not given up the endeavor, I hope."

"No! I have a man at work in England, and I myself make small endeavors. Only the other day I thought that I—"

Apparently he remembered something, for he broke off sharply. "But why discuss the affair? It is only one of the world's small injustices which shows that the law, usually right, may go wrong occasionally."

"I suppose that the other night when you were waiting for Mr. Ainley, it was on this particular matter that you wished to see him?"

Stane made no reply, but sat looking in the fire, and the girl watching him, drew her own conclusion from his silence, a conclusion that was far from favorable to Gerald Ainley. She wondered what were the questions Stane had wished to ask her uncle's secretary; and which, as she was convinced, he had been at such pains to avoid. Was it possible that her rescuer believed that his one-time friend had it in his power to prove his innocence of the crime for which he had suffered? All the indications seemed to point that way; and as she looked at the grave, thoughtful face, and the graying hair of the man who had saved her from death, she resolved that on the morrow, when she reached her uncle's camp, she would herself question Gerald Ainley upon the matter.

But, as events befell, the opportunity that the morrow was to bring was not given. For that night, whilst she slept in the little tent, and Stane, wrapped in a blanket, slumbered on a bed of spruce boughs, perhaps half-a-dozen yards away, a man crept cautiously between the trees in the rear of the encampment, and stood looking at it with covetous eyes. He was a half-breed of evil countenance, and he carried an old trade gun, which he held ready for action whilst he surveyed the

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

Stane sleeping in the open, and then locked towards the tent with a question in them. Evidently he was wondering how many travelers there were; and found the thought a deterrent one; for though once he lifted his gun and pointed it to the sleeping man, he lowered it again, his eyes turning to the tent anew.

After a period of indecision, the intruder left the shadow of the trees, and crept quietly down to the camp, his gun still at the ready, and with his eyes fixed on the unconscious Stane. Moving very cautiously he reached the place where the canoe was beached, and looked down into it. A gleam of satisfaction came into his dark eyes as he saw a small sack of beans reposing in the stern, then again a covetous look came into them as their gaze shifted to the stores about the camp. But these were very near the sleeping man, and as the latter stirred in his sleep, the half-breed relinquished any thought of acquiring them. Stealthily he conveyed the canoe down to the water's edge, launched it, and then with a grin on his evil face as he gave a last look at the man in the blanket, he paddled away.

A full three-quarters of an hour later Stane awoke, and looking aside the blankets, replenished the fire, and then went a little way up-stream to bathe. At the end of half an hour he returned. His first glance was towards the tent, the fly of which was still closed, then he looked round the camp and a puzzled look came on his face. There was something a little unfamiliar, something not present which—

"Great Scott! The canoe!" At a run he covered the space between him and the camp, and as he looked round and saw that most of the stores reposed where he had placed them the previous night, relief surged in his heart.

"Thank heaven!" "Mr. Stane, what is the matter? You look as if something had startled you."

He swung round instantly. Helen Yardley was standing at the tent door with a smile on her face. "The matter is serious enough," he explained quickly. "Some one has stolen the canoe in the night."

"Then we are stranded!" asked the girl quickly. "In a way—yes," he agreed. "But we are not in a desperate case. We have food, I have my rifle, and it will be possible to make a raft and float down the river until we meet your uncle's people."

"And if the current took control, Mr. Stane? Please believe me when I say I am not afraid—but I cannot help thinking of those falls you mentioned."

Stane looked doubtful. "There are risks, of course," he said. "The alternative to the river is to tramp through the woods."

"Then I vote for the alternative," replied Helen with a little laugh. "I've had my full of drifting like a fly caught in an eddy."

She said no more, but taking the kettle, walked down to the river, humming to herself a gay little chanson.

He watched her go, with a soft light gleaming in his hard blue eyes, then he turned and began to busy himself with preparations for breakfast. When the meal was finished, he went through the stores and his personal possessions.

"We can't take them all," he explained. "I know my limit, and the sixty pounds is as much as I can carry along if I am to travel steadily, without too many rests. We shall have to cache a goodish bit."

"You are forgetting me, aren't you?" asked the girl, quietly. "I'm fairly strong, you know."

"But—" "I think I must insist," she interrupted with a smile. "You are doing all this for me; and quite apart from that, I shall be glad to know what the trail is like under real conditions."

Stane argued further, but in vain, and in the end the girl had her way, and took the trail with a pack of perhaps five and twenty pounds, partly made up of the clothes she had changed into after her rescue.

Horse Learns How to Work Farm Pump

Mt. Vernon, Ill.—An example of superior "horse-sense" on the part of an eight-year-old Hamiltonian named "Ted" has been reported on the farm of John Fry of Ina. The horse has learned from observation to pump water from a well in the pasture, and when thirsty is said to take the pump handle and pump the trough full.

"Animal sense" of cows and horses in the pasture has recently resulted in an imposition on "Ted." When he starts pumping the herd gathers about him and often compels him to pump till they are satisfied, before he gets to quench his own thirst. Mr. Fry, the owner said the horse has become one of the country-side curiosities

COOPERATION OF FARMERS THROUGH ASSNS. SUCCEEDS

Report to Union Meeting in Omaha Hits at Their Critics.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 21.—A. C. Davis, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers National and Cooperative Union of America in his report submitted to the organization's convention today, declared that while not all of the union's moves have been uniformly successful, still its "larger activities have shown such marked success and their transactions so highly remunerative to the membership, that the infrequent failure has hardly made a ripple on the surface."

"Were it possible to obtain the exact amounts involved in the cooperative transactions of our membership the sum total would be a staggering blow to those who have been skeptical as to the farmers' ability to manage their affairs," the report declared.

Big Investments
"The membership now has millions of dollars invested in cooperative elevators, flour mills, lumber and coal yards, stores, creameries, state exchanges, cotton warehouses, gins, tanneries, etc. In addition to the millions of dollars in cooperative turnover of these capitalized institutions, the membership shares in the cooperative profits of numerous non-stock, non-profit commodity marketing associations."

A prosperous year for the cooperative enterprises of the Farmers Union was represented by W. C. Lansdon, national organizer, who declared the union's livestock commission houses would have a volume of sales for 1923 of $200,000,000 and would distribute $300,000 in shipper dividends December 3.

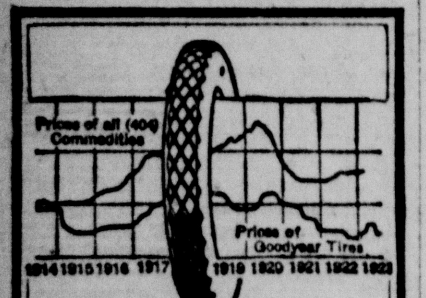

Must Support Work
Touching on the organization at Chicago by former Governor F. O. Lowden of Illinois and others, of the National Advisory Wheat Committee, Mr. Lansdon declared that if the enterprise is to be a success, it must have "the confidence and active support of all interests, agricultural or otherwise that are interested in making wheat farming profitable."

The "fundamental need of the farmer is a satisfactory market for his products, which can be brought about," Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania told the convention, by extension of cooperative endeavor, construction of deep water ways and greater electrification of farms.

"Cooperation more than any other single remedy, points the way out," he declared. He emphasized that the farmers' market lies mainly in American towns and cities, the prosperity of which is essential to farm prosperity. A better market board, he said, can be had by helping improve European conditions and by national legislation for special credit facilities for farm products.

Farm House Near Rock Grove Burned

Rock Grove, Ill., Nov. 20.—The large farm house situated on the farm of J. S. Shelton, one-half mile west of Rock Grove, was entirely destroyed by fire about 8 o'clock this morning. Quick work on the part of neighbors saved the furniture and household equipment but they could not fight the flames that destroyed the home because of a lack of water. The loss is estimated at $5,000, partly covered by insurance.

Goodyear Tire prices have been kept consistently lower than the average for all commodities. Then think of the improvements represented by that finest of all Goodyears, the new Goodyear Cord. Despite this, prices are 37% lower now than in 1920, and 30% lower than in 1914. This is the time to buy Goodyears.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cord with the bonded tire Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service.

Need of Teachers is Very Pronounced

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 21.—The very best basis of American democracy is popular education. Dr. David Kinley, president of the University of Illinois said today, in an educational week statement.

"A government like ours can not long endure unless its citizens are educated. As a people, we are bound to see that the coming generation is properly educated for the discharge of their duties as citizens. We furnish free schools we must insist on attendance."

"The greatest need in our education properly qualified teachers. Every effort should be made to dignify the calling and make it attractive to our most talented men and women."

FORD AGAINST M'ADOO; HIRAM AGAINST CALVIN

That's Line-up After Proposal Meetings in South Dakota.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Claiming better than a two to one victory in the county proposal conventions over sponsors of a state-wide presidential campaign in behalf of Henry Ford, supporters of W. G. McAdoo today began work on a state platform which they hope may be carried into the national arena by their candidate.

Returns from counties representing approximately three-fourths of the state voting power, gave McAdoo forces 30,000 votes in the state convention against less than 10,000 for the Ford men, according to leaders.

Republican and farmer-labor sentiment was less clearly indicated by the county proposal nominations to the state conventions at Pierre December 4, but the battle lines are drawn in the republican camp between President Coolidge and Senator Hiram Johnson of California and in the third party between Henry Ford and R. M. La Follette of Wisconsin. A majority of the proposal men in all three parties were sent unopposed.

Three Ford Centers.
Ford centers in the democratic ranks were found in Spink, Tripp and Hamlin counties, whose full delegations were instructed, in addition Ford backers claimed Codington and portions of Brookings and Lincoln, wielding a convention vote equal to about one-sixth the state vote.

The McAdoo forces listed 19 full counties with a voting power of over 20,000 and scattered delegates in 15 other counties whose combined vote is more than 10,000.

Yankton County republicans endorsed Governor McMaster for senator and commended him for his gasoline policy.

In Moody county, the farmer-labor convention endorsed Ford for the presidency.

Bird Dog's Alarm Prevents Bad Fire

Sheboygan, Ill., Nov. 21.—To a bird dog, owned by a transient roomer in the Dumas Dumas business and apartment building on West Main street, is due the alarm which aroused inmates of the building in time to check the fire that had started in the basement and was eating its way through the first floor rooms occupied by A. S. Jones, Ford agency, shortly after midnight this morning. The dog was tied in the Ford rooms and when disturbed by the fire and smoke made a disturbance that was heard on the second floor.

Friendly Argument Years Ago Results in N. U. Endowment

Chicago, Nov. 21.—A friendly argument twenty years ago was indirectly responsible for W. S. Mason, Evans-ton banker, giving Northwestern University $100,000 to endow a chair in history.

Announcement of the gift has been made by Dean J. A. James, head of the university's history department, designated by the donor as the first professor to hold the chair.

The argument was between Mr. Mason and a friend, who contended Benjamin Franklin was a great scientist, the banker maintaining he was not. Later Mr. Mason made a study of Franklin's life and claims to have assembled private collection of Franklin relics.

Compulsory Linking of Waterways and Railroads is Urged

Washington, Nov. 21.—Compulsory measures to link water and rail traffic are recommended in a report made public today by a committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The committee also suggests that "congress direct the corps of engineers of the United States army to consider the waterway as a whole and in their relation to other transportation agencies and to recommend a definite development plan and a schedule of priorities."

While the railroads must form the principal part of the nation's transportation system, the report declares, water transportation is cheaper and better under certain conditions and should be developed to supplement rail facilities and provide a safeguard against recurrence of transportation shortages.
